Viv Ralls is looking to contribute time to our community as a member of the Irvington Planning Commission.

I bring 25 years of experience as a business leader and consultant, helping companies select and implement technologies to boost profitability and enhance customer and employee experiences. These roles honed my analytical skills, critical thinking, and ability to understand complex processes, people, and strategic goals—skills vital for the Irvington Planning Commission. Though new to city planning, I offer strong communication, a willingness to compromise, and a community-minded perspective.

Many here know me and my husband Mark, as after falling in love with Irvington's people and culture by way of weekends away from No. VA, we chose Irvington as a full time home in 2015. . I'm eager to contribute patiently, with an open mind and listen to diverse viewpoints to serve our town.

Thank you,
Viv Ralls
